An active business was done on the Stock Exchange during the two hours' trading and was well distributed throughout the district. There was some London selling at the opening in St. Paul, Louisville & Nashville and Atchison, the latter giving way only 1/4, but the others receding %. In the early dealings speculation was weak and a fractional decline took place. The depression was of brief duration and prices soon took an upward turn under the leadership of Chicago Gas, which, after a decline of 1/2, sold up 31/8 on covering of shorts. Distilling was bought on the advice of President Greenhut, of the trust, who asserted that the recent decision against the trust is of great importance. The break in Chicago Gas had the effect of weakening the entire market, and the general tendency was downward up to 12 o'clock. Some of the specialties meanwhile made material advances, but in the main the market was heavy at the close. Compared with the closing figures of Friday, prices were irregular. LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Trade of the Week Disappointing, with Few Important Changes. Wholesale men speak of the trade of the first week in April as having fallen below expectations. The weather has been unfavorable to spring business. Retail merchants in all lines are not disposed to stock up ahead, being confident that prices, if they do not go lower, will not advance any. Hog products are still on the decline and selling much lower than in April, 1893. In staple groceries prices carry a steady tone, but there are no indications of any marked advances in the near fuure. Dry goods in nearly all lines are easy in tone, and concessions, even on the present low prices, are made to sell good bills. Eggs are steady, shippers paying about 71/2 cents per dozen. Poultry and butter are both weak at quotations. Irish potatoes, oranges and bananas are all higher than a week ago. Onlons and cabbage are easier. Strawberries are arriving more freely and are lower. New tomatoes are still in light supply, with prices o high that the demand is light. The local grain market, was more active

A Botanical Beauty Whose Flowers Continually Drip Deadly Poison.

St. Louis Republic. .Java, the land of the famous and much exaggerated "Death Valley," has many wonderful curiosities in the shape of ornithological, geological, zoological and botanical oddities, chief among the latter being the "Kali Mujah" or "death plant." It grows only on the sterile soils of the volcanic regions of Java and the adjoining islands and is even there reckoned as a curiosity on account of its extreme scarcity, being rarely met with even by those having knowledge of its haunts and general characteristics. It grows from two and one-half to three feet in height, with long, slender stems, well protected by stout thorns nearly an inch in length. The ground leaves are of a delicate satinlike smoothness, heart-shaped, emerald green on one side and blood red streaked and veined with light buff on the other. The flowers of this death-dealing beauty are even more beautiful than the plant itself, being very large and cup-shaped, ringing in the ears and sometimes even partial or total deafness. It is said that Mrs. Madison Black, of Savannah, Ga., owns the only plant of this

With the use of plenty of manure and fertilizers a small plot of land may be made to produce two crops in one year and allow a larger profit than can be obtained from a field that is devoted to some special cereal crop. There are crops that can be gotten into market early, in time to sell for good prices, and the land again prepared for a second crop. This fact is well known to gardeners, who make a tage of following one crop with another 'also where the land is in prime condition. By watching the markets and knowing what to grow small farms of five and ten acres have been made to pay better than large farms that are devoted to what is

Where the labor is expensive the profit is lessened, but the results of thorough cultivation extend into the succeeding season, and the growing of an early crop is but the preparation of the ground for one that is to follow, as the cultivation of an early crop reduces the weeds and grass that may be liable to interfere with the later one. Early peas, cabbage, culiflower, potatoes and lettuce may be grown and cleaned off the land in time to grow late cabbage and potatoes, and a large crop of peas may be taken off the plot, of the early dwarf varieties, before lima beans, tomatoes, string beans, pappers, egg plants or melons need be planted, as such crops should not go in the ground until all danger of frost is over, while the peas, which may be planted at the present time, will grow quickly and send a crop to market before the month of May is gone if the selection of the proper kinds.

When the soil is made to produce abundantly there must be no limit to the plant food provided, and the cultivation must be thorough. The object should be to get the early crops out of the way as soon as possible, and to gain time there must be such cultivation as will allow not a single weed to appear. It is when the plants first come out of the ground that they are most injured by weeds, and when the soil is kept clean there will also be more moisture retained in the soil for the crops. If the weeds are killed as soon as they appear the second crop will not require such frequent cultivation, while the next year the weeds will have been materially reduced. Two crops cannot be obtained, however, unless there is plenty of plant food, and in applying manure or fertilizers there will be no loss from the use of a large quantity, as that portion not utilized will be left over for the crops of next season. is by feeding the soil, close cultivation and judicious selection of the proper crops to be grown that the small farms are made to pay.

Detroit Free Press. The teacher was instructing the arithmetic class in history. "On what day is Washington's birthiay?" she inquired. "Twenty-second of February," answered "And Independence day?"

This seemed to be a poser and no reply was forthcoming. Finally a youngster, who had been scribbling on a slip of paper, held up his hand. "Good for you, Johnny," said the teacher, encouragingly; "now tell us what the difference is between these two of the greatest days in our national history?" "Four months and twelve days, ma'am" and the teacher was shocked, because she had forgotten there was an aritametic side to the question, as well as a history one.

Follows Report of Better Prospects for the Coming Crop.

Loss of 11-4c on the Day in the Leading Cereal, with a Decline in Corn-Provisions a Trifle Firmer.

CHICAGO, April 7.-It was a weather market in wheat, with variegated crop reports thrown in. The majority of the crop reports received to-day made quite light of crop damage and the trade gave ear to that version of the story. The feeling was heavy, and while trade was light, there was less timidity shown by short sellers. At the close May wheat showed a oss of about 14c. The spread between May and July is now 14c. Corn was weak and left off with a loss for the day of %c. Oats were firm for near deliveries and weak for the more deferred. Provisions were in the main quite firm. After the close of the regular session of very weak, but sentiment had turned again to the bull side before trading was resumed. May sold privately yesterday as low as 63%c, but the trading at the opening in the pit was at 641/40, with some little as high as 641/2c. The market kept steady at 641/4c for a time, but there was some nervousness on the part of the longs as the sellers appeared to be acting with much confidence. There were light rains in northeastern Kansas, with an indication of those spreading, and a majority of the crop reports which came in were inclined to minimize the amount of the damage done by the freeze. Foreign news was not encouraging, inasmuch as the great recent strength of the market here had only caused about 1d advance at Liverpool. From Frankfort, Ky., the reports were that the damage was being greatly magnified, and a dispatch from a farmer who works an extensive area near Louisville was that there was no damage of any extent. Missouri wired that it was raining there to-day, and that the wheat prospects were fine. Other reports from many widely scattered localities were in a similar strain, and the market ruled weak in consequence. An attempt to sell 300,000 bushels by George Baldin less than two minutes. As soon as the last ten thousand bushels of the lot referred to were sold, and the crowd saw there was no more to follow, the price dropped again to 631/sc. After that and up to the close, business was dull, but the tendency continued to be toward a lower level. There was another drop which carried the price off to 64%c, followed by 64%c, followed by a reaction to 63%c, and the latest transactions were at that pric.. There were more sellers than buyers at that as the bell tapped. Corn opened %@%c lower than it closed yesterday and in the course of the day declined 1/2c more, and closed at a loss of %c. Receipts were not heavy to-day and still lighter are expected for Monday. Trade in the pit was light, without any prominent transactions on either side of the mar-

While only a limited amount of business was transacted in oats the market remained firm. The cause of this strength is probably due to the effect of the crop reports which have brought in a great many buying orders. May closed at an advance of 1/8c over yestérday's latest quotation. Trading in provisions was without spirit, and of moderate volume. Prices were firm at the opening, but were followed by a period of weakness induced by free offerings of lard by Catlin, White and others. On an attempt to buy at the slight decline occasioned by the selling of lard the market ruled firmer and prices advanced beyond yesterday's closing prices and rested with a slight advance. Compared with last night May lard is .021/2c higher and May ribs .071/2c higher.

Estimated receipts for Monday are: Wheat, 50 cars; corn, 195 cars; oats, 120 cars; hogs, 32,000 head. Leading futures arguments and remedies that have been presented by thoughtful rien, there has been a deluge of sentiment, disguised advertising and well-meant advice from unpractical writers that has often made a great subject appear ridiculous to many. and especially to those who will have the honor of paying the bills. Contractors' views are often very good, but they are not disinterested. Newspaper

Times have been hard. Spring will possibly bring greater prosperity, and certainly more mud. Then will the discussion again rage. Agitation must tell. If good country roads are to be built they should be largely such as the farmer approves, and not made to precisely please our city brethren. A valuable correspondent living on Long Island, New York, writes as follows: The method followed here is to lease the repairing of roads to the lowest bidder, generally a farmer, he to do the work when best suited, which generally means a delay until October or November following.

but almost impassable in winter. In some localities shells are spread out to be broken up by passing wagons and ground into the roadway. This makes almost as good a road as macadam and costs much less, but the supply of shells is limited. A few macadam roads are being laid, but not kept in good repair. The famous South Side road, noted for its fineness, is a sort of loamy sand packed almost as hard as stone, never muddy, but becomes full of holes in short time.

The Idler. only athletic sport in Italy. It is true that there is an Alpine Club, so called because its members climb the lesser heights of the Apennines, but there is no cricket, and, except among the laboring classes, ball games of even the mildest character are hardly ever played. The young Italian gentleman finds in dueling an exercise which is beneficial to his muscles and sufficiently exciting to interest him, and the middle aged Italian keeps up his practice with the foils and occasionally challenges and fights a cent pursuits of youth the duelist is never punished (unless he should accidentally kill a man) except in the army, where the sport is obligatory and strictly prohibited. The same curious anomaly exists in Germany, where army officers are arrested and punished if they fight a duel, and either cashiered or forced to resign if they do not. The Italian officer when challenged to fight is virtually told, demned if you don't." This seems to the Anglo-Saxon decidedly idiotic, but nothing can well be more idiotic than dueling. Playing charades in a drawing room rises to philosophic heights of wisdom in comparison with it. At least ninety-nine of every hundred

Italian duels are of the class technically known as "first-blood" duels. That is to say, the combat ceases the moment either of the adversaries loses blood. In these duels the sword is always used, and the slightest scratch on the hand or the armwhich are the localities usually scratchedsignalizes the end of the game and authorizes the duelists to sheath their weapons and go somewhere to dinner together. Instances have happened in which a duelist has been accidentally run through the body and killed, but incidents of this sort are extremely infrequent compared with the fatalities of the football field. Italian dueling is probably the safest of all athletic sports except prize fighting as practiced by modern pugilists by means of letters to the sporting papers.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

We have already been shown the carefully kept books of a farmer who owns and tills a little place of only fifty acres. Not having much land to look after, you see he has time to keep his accounts. Some men who have large farms have no time for such foolish things, but this man says the time spent on his books pays better than if put upon working so much more land, because, he says, it enables him to tall all the time what crops, and what fields, and what stock pay him; but perhaps that is only a theory. You see these book farmers are very often theoretical-but about his fifty acres. His accounts begin with an inventory of the land and everything on it at the beginning of the year. At the close of the year was another inventory, and in each every item was set down at its actual value. There was an increase of stock, machinery and supplies amounting to about $100. The sales from the farm during the year had been $900 in excess of the purchases for supplies and the payment for labor. Besides this, there was every evidence that the family had lived well, had enjoyed all seasonable comforts and had not been overworked. The total of sales had been made up from all the products of a general farm, as the owner was not a specialty farmer. This is in the nature of an object lesson for men who have large farms and who are overworked in the effort to cultivate all their land properly, and who in the end find themselves poorly paid for their pains. The little farm is the more satisfactory.

-Entered into rest, Ollie Davis, beloved daughter of Mrs. Eva Shields, Sunday, April 1, 1894, in the eighteenth year of her age, after a lingering illness, borne with such patience and fortitude as well fitted her to enter upon the life of peace. As a spring flower she bloomed and flourished for a season, departing before the fierce heat of life's summer could mar the gentle fragrance of her purity.

My Lord has need of these flowerets gay, The reaper said, and smiled; Dear tokens of the earth are they, Where he was once a child.

They shall all bloom in fields of light, Transplanted by my care, And saints upon their garments white, These sacred blossoms wear.

To the physicians and friends who by their many kindnesses and courtesies at this trying time have shown us so much sympathy I return my heartfelt thanks.

DEATH PLANT OF JAVA.

and of a color almost deathly in the white-The name of the plant is from a characteristic of these splendid flowers, which, beautiful though they are, continually drip with a deadly poison. This poison, which is distilled in the bottom of the cupshaped blossom, has the sickening odor of chloroform, intensified a dozen fold, it being powerful enough to overcome a fullgrown man in a few seconds, even when inhaled in open air. The perfume, if such a pungent odor can properly be so called, produces insensibility in the form of convulsions, distorting the face, especially the mouth and eyes, into a horrid, crazy-looking grin. Recovery from the effects of inhaling this odor is said to be very slow and to be followed with violent headache,
